Urban Research Theater Newsletter – July 2009

CURRENT EVENTS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The ongoing practical research and creative development of Urban Research Theater continues this fall in a new phase of work. The core working group at present consists of Ben Spatz, Michele Farbman, and Maximilian Balduzzi.

Maximilian recently returned home from Spain, where he led a two-week workshop for the Teatro Calidoscopico in Segovia. Michele Farbman also led a workshop this month in New York City. Ben Spatz will travel to Philadelphia next week to lead a full-day intensive workshop for the Genesis Project, organized by Arturo Vidich of Culture Push (<culturepush.org>).

Starting in September, each of us will lead a separate weekly workshop. This means you will have three different weekly opportunities to join our work in a practical studio setting. You will receive the schedule and other details as soon as they are finalized.

We hope to see you soon.
